Bowdoin Celebrates the Grand Opening of the Community Health Center of Cape Cod

Mashpee, Massachusetts - Bowdoin recently celebrated the grand opening of this new 10,000 s.f. community health center in Mashpee, MA. The celebration took place on April 10, 2008 and included tours of the newly completed facility.

The project entailed five months of preconstruction services with Bowdoin working in collaboration with the health center building committee and Melton-Ferre Associates Architects.

The cape style building is constructed of wood framing, Hardi-Plank and wood shingle siding, asphalt shingle and standing-seam metal roofing and features a vaulted glass entryway. The interior fitout features dental operatories, clinical exam rooms, labs, a pharmacy, social services meeting rooms, multiple nurse's stations and staff offices.
